

Addictions and Pregnancy Don't Mix

Make the change. For you. For your baby.

- ◇ Help is confidential and available for pregnant women.
- ◇ Pregnant women have priority admission to alcohol & drug treatment.
- ◇ There is funding available to cover the cost of treatment.
- ◇ Take the first step today.

It can feel like you are always running and never catching up. You may think alcohol and drugs help you cope. In the end, they make things worse. If you can't stop your alcohol and drug use, don't give up.

There is help for you. Pregnant women get priority access to addiction treatment services. The specialized services program for pregnant women is designed to help women recover and have healthy babies. The services available in the program include:

- Outpatient treatment
- Residential treatment
- Case Management
- Transportation
- Medical care
- Life Skills Training
- Parenting Education
- Child Care

Call 800-922-3406

Ask about priority admission and specialized services for pregnant women

Support and help is available, call now.